

Karen Wegner

In her professional career, Karen has applied her strengths and passion for learning in many capacities and roles, including classroom instruction, independent consulting, instructional systems design, directing educational consultants and elearning development, and leading sales efforts for educational products.

Throughout, the work always seems to respond to the need to identify strategy and establish systems, processes and infrastructure that enable people to be successful. In her current role at Metropolitan Community College, she serves the college through building instructional design capacity and developing digital learning solutions.

As a member of ATD since 1992, she has engaged in ATD chapter programs while living in Omaha, Milwaukee and the Twin Cities, and has pursued additional learning opportunities through ATD Certificate programs. Karen is also an active member of the eLearning Guild, and presented at DevLearn2013 in Las Vegas. Other professional associations have included ISPI, ODN, PMI, ASCD, and NSDC.

Karen holds a Master of Education in Adult Learning/ Human Resource Development from the University of Minnesota – Twin Cities, and a Bachelor of Science in Education from the University of Nebraska – Lincoln.