

Katie Kuhl

Katie is a learning and development professional with experience in classroom facilitation, content assessment and development, organizational development, and business process strategy. She is the Learning Experience (Training) Manager at Medical Solutions, a company focused on staffing quality healthcare in a travel capacity.

In her role she leads a team of Learning Experience (LX) Designers and Specialists with the purpose of helping the organization grow through personal and professional development training opportunities. Their focus is the design, development, and production of innovative and engaging training content that incorporates mixed media using a working knowledge of instructional design and learning methodologies.