

Zach Crosby

Zach grew up in Omaha, Nebraska, where his family worked hard to put him in taekwondo classes. It was through this, that his instructor, Kim Woolery, would start to form the foundation of his life. Using the taekwondo structure as a tool, she taught him how to transform dreams into goals, how to achieve excellence, and most importantly, how to discipline his mind and body to become accomplished.

Zach joined the United States Marine Corps in 2010. In 2014, he got off active duty and came back to Omaha, Nebraska where he attended the University of Nebraska at Omaha. In July of 2015, he switched gears and pursued a career in healthcare staffing as a recruiter.

In 2015, he started his own taekwondo club out of Nikki's Dance Studio in Fort Calhoun, Nebraska. His club is still running strong with 35 students; some travel as much as 25 miles to attend class. Zach believes that having a hand in developing these kids into productive members of society is one of the most rewarding opportunities.

In February of 2017, Zach began working at RTG Medical. He was hired as a healthcare recruiter and received two promotions. The first was a supplementary role as a Peer Trainer where he hosted two to three training classes a month in addition to his recruiting responsibilities. Then in April of 2019, he was promoted to Training and Development Coach where he pioneered RTG Medical's Training and Development Division.

Currently, he runs a traveling healthcare team, manages facility accounts, manages a team of six new recruiters, and meets with all levels of RTG Medical's employment body. Zach lives with the love of his life Kendra and their two boys, Zeik and Sebastian "Bash."
